ORIGIN OF THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL.

In the summer of 1894, the Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia, visited Russia, in an effort to secure data concerning the condition of the Jews in that country and to urge means for its amelioration. While there, he observed the astonishing zeal with which Jews pursued agriculture, within the limits allowed by the Russian government. He saw a people yearning, not as common prejudice has assumed, for a life of trade, but for opportunities to work out their existence from the soil. He furthermore visited, at the suggestion of Count Tolstoi, the Jewish agricultural school, at Odessa, the end of whose activity was the graduation of practical working farmers, and instructors and managers of agricultural colonies. The avidity with which Jewish lads availed themselves of the facilities thus given them, convinced him that the agricultural instincts, fostered in Biblical times, still lingered, and needed but opportunity for their manifestation.

On his return to America, Dr. Krauskopf proceeded to formulate plans for the institution of a Farm School, which, while welcoming all students regardless of creed, might satisfy the demand of large numbers of Jews for agricultural opportunities. After months of agitation, sufficient funds were procured for the purchase of a farm and the erection of adequate buildings thereon.

On April 10th, 1896, the National Farm School was incorporated, the Watson Farm of 122 acres having been previously purchased for the sum of $10,000. It is situated within a mile of Doylestwon, the County seat of Bucks County and within 25 miles of the city of Philadelphia. Shortly after the purchase of the farm, plans were drawn by Messrs. Cope & Stewardson for the erection of the school building, and on June 20th, 1897, the building was formally dedicated. The farm, with all the buildings, is the property, and stands in the name of the National Farm School ; it is free from all incumbrances, and represents a cost of nearly $30,000. The buildings are furnished and equipped, and a Master and Matron are in charge, assisted by a number of instructors and demonstrators.

Fifteen pupils hailing from different parts of our country are actively engaged in their studies and work. (Many others are desirous of entering, but for the want of means they cannot as yet be admitted.) The Burpee Seed Farm, located opposite the Farm School site, as well as the Robert Steele Stock Farm, and a number of floricultural establishments, located near the National Farm School, have kindly offered their respective plants as part of the school, and the scientifically and practically trained men in charge of them have volunteered their services as instructors.

God's blessing attending, and the encouragement and aid of the public continuing, the signs are very favorable that the school will, before many years, realize the noble objects for which it has been called into life.

PURPOSE OF THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL.

The end to be attained by the National Farm School is throughout a practical one. It is the purpose of the institution to graduate agriculturists, prepared in every way to embark on an agricultural career. They shall be skilfully and scientifically trained in agriculture, both as a science and a profession. Side by side with the reasons adduced for the doing of a thing shall be the actual doing of the thing itself. The school building shall be utilized for the inculcation of the principles of skilled agriculture—and the soil for the practical application of such principles.

WHEREIN THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL DIFFERS FROM THE AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS ATTACHED TO THE STATE COLLEGES.

In the above statement is indicated the difference between the National Farm School and the agricultural schools connected with many of our State Colleges. The latter institutions are mainly experimental stations, in which a very limited number of students—who are required to have completed a High School education before they can be admitted—acquire, for the most part, a knowledge ef the science of agriculture. The practical work is taken up and pursued by but very few.

The National Farm School accepts boys who have passed through the grammar school, fully four years earlier than they can be admitted into the agricultural schools attached to State Colleges, and educates and keeps as many as possible, free of charge, and trains them in every department of agriculture—theoretically, during the few winter months, in the school room, and, practically, throughout the spring, summer and autumn, on the fields, for the sole purpose of making practical agriculture their life's pursuit.

GRADUATES OF NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL NOT TO BE MERE FARM HANDS.

But it is not to be understood that the object of the Farm School is to train mere farm hands. Had that been the end sought, apprenticing the boys among farmers would have answered the purpose, and the expense of maintaining a school could have been saved. The main object of the National Farm School is to graduate practically and scientifically trained heads of farms of all kinds, their own or others, superintendents of colonies, managers of landed estates, men capable of rightly locating and properly starting agricultural colonies, which so frequently fail because of the want of practically and scientifically trained leaders and teachers at their head.

Herein lies the greatest hope of the National Farm School, and it was mainly for this reason that it was called into life.

WILL GRADUATES OF NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL FOLLOW AGRICULTURE FOR A LIVING?

This is at the same time the answer to the frequently asked question: "Will the boys pursue their calling after graduation?" That question might as reasonably be asked of the medical, law or theological student. Many a graduated lawyer, physician and preacher has forsaken his profession, and there is no doubt but that some of the National Farm School graduates will do likewise, probably more so, by reason of the strong allurements from the country by the illusory attractions of the city.

At the same time, however, it is no less a truth, that in an age in which the struggle for existence is as bitter as at the present time, especially in mercantile life, and in most of the trades and professions, the chances are that young men will, in the long run, find it more advantageous to adhere to, and persevere in, the calling for which they have fitted themselves, in which they are proficient, in which they are wanted, and in which they are surer of a living than in the already over-crowded pursuits, for which they have had no preparation, and may not have the necessary fitness.

Why the fear is entertained that the boys will exchange their calling for another is not clear. It certainly cannot be because wasting away in sweat-shops, or slaving in factories or mills, or doubling under the weight of the pack, is found so very tempting and profitable by those engaged therein. It is rather the contrary that is to be expected. Gradually it is beginning to dawn on the laboring people that it was a profound truth which Washington uttered, when he pronounced agriculture to be "the most healthful, the most useful, the most noble employment of man." They are beginning to tire of narrowing, stifling, stunting city-life, and, like penitents, long to return to mother earth, whose fond embraces they have spurned and fled. They are beginning to feel that the large cities are huge furnaces, in which their best mental and physical vigor is being consumed.

The feeling is growing that the advantages of city-life are purchased at a drain and strain far in excess of their worth, that, at best, no man can eat more than three square meals a day, and that the chances for earning these respectably are as great in the country as in the city, and with much less cost of vitality. Workingmen are beginning to contrast country life with the struggles and competitions of the cities, entered into, for the most part, solely for the purpose of paying high rentals for small accommodations, and high prices for little enjoyments.

We are beginning to feel that we are suffering the consequences of forgetting that the basis of every prosperous government must be a prosperous and contented husbandry, of overlooking Jefferson's prophecy that "the American people will remain virtuous as long as agriculture is our principal object; when we get to be piled upon one another in large cities, as in Europe, we shall become as corrupt as they," of building up and undue number of large cities at a drain of country population, of allowing thousands to starve and to rot, to breed vice and disease, crime and anarchy in the cities, for all of whom there is more bread than they could ever eat, more clothes than they could ever wear, more work than they could ever do, more joy than they could ever exhaust, in the country and upon the fields. We are beginning to feel that our only safety lies in creating a counter-current from the city to the country, in turning the stream of immigration from the seaboard towns to the rural districts, where farm labor is wanted, where those who have been transplanted from the congested labor centres have had their starvation changed to plenty.

Still more, a conviction is growing that this remedy is not only good for the immigrant, or for our own poor, but that it will prove itself as effective upon our wealthier classes, and more especially upon their children. Dr. Lexis, a professor of Göttingen shows, in a recent work, that there are nearly 30,000 students entered on the books of the 21 German universities, more than one-half of whom are doomed to a life of poverty and disappointment. And yet every one of them, being more or less highly endowed by nature, might, if turned into a husbandman on any of the world's millions of acres of untilled arable land, become a blessing to himself, and a benefactor to human kind. The professor's statistics refer to Germany only, but the principle applies with equal force to us. We are educating far more professional men than we shall ever be able to employ, and it is unemployed educated people that we have most to fear. Those who are conscious of their worth and rights do not submit to want without a struggle. They become the socialistic and anarchistic agitators. They write the books of destructive tendencies. They scatter the seeds of pessimism and infidelity. They instigate strikes and mobs.

WILL GRADUATES OF THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL FIND EMPLOYMENT?

Another question that is frequently asked is: "Will graduates of the National Farm School readily find employment, or have the means to start for themselves?" There is little doubt but that before very long there will be a much greater demand for graduates than the Farm School will be able to turn out. In this age of keen competition, and in which the fittest only can survive, it is the practically and scientifically trained agriculturist, who has the chance of making his calling profitable, and it is he who is greatly needed, is eagerly sought after in the truck—fruit—and stock-farms, in the dairies and green-houses, and by the large Western land owners, for the profitable development of their vast estates. Graduates of the National Farm School will at first accept salaried positions, and gradually accumulate sufficient to start for themselves. Or they will be started by large land owners to whose advantage it will be to have thoroughly trained agriculturists located on their lands.

Land has already been offered the Board of Trustees, free of cost, for the settlement of their graduates, and there is little doubt that the necessary small capital for a proper starting will not be wanting, and will in due time be repaid.

THE NATIONAL FARM SCHOOL NOT PROPOSED AS A PANACEA.

At the same time it is to be distinctly understood that the National Farm School is not offered as a means of accumulating a fortune. Nothing more than an honorable and respectable living is promised to the boys as a return for their labor and close application, a living that in point of healthfulness, usefulness, reliability and independence will in every way be found to be superior to the work performed, and the life lived, by thousands and tens of thousands in the slums and tenement districts and sweatshops of our congested cities.

Nor are all advised to take up and follow the study and pursuit of agriculture. The work is hard, the life is largely isolated, the hardships and disappointments are many. Let those only seek it, who have a love and fitness for it, and let those seek the other professions or callings, who are really better fitted for them. The world needs the mechanic, merchant and professional man as well as the agriculturist. But it does not want too many in the one pursuit, and too few in the other. Happy they who successfully pursue the callings for which they are best fitted, and wherein they are most wanted.

DESCRIPTION OF THE FARM AND BUILDINGS.

The Farm consists of one hundred and twenty-two acres of land, located near Doylestown, Bucks County, Pa. Of this amount about twenty acres are under fine timber growth. The balance of the land is in a good state of cultivation. There are apple and other fruit trees on the place furnishing fruit for the use of the institution and for market purposes.

The farm buildings consist of such as are found on any well ordered farm. House, barn, with hovel adjoining, carriage house, machine house, corn houses, grain barracks, poultry house, ice house and milk house. The latter is located over a never-failing spring of cold water and is admirably suited for the care of the finest dairy products.

The school building is large and commodious, and is situated on a prominence which commands a view of the whole farm. The rooms on the first floor are an assembly room, library and class room, (which can all be thrown together for purposes of entertainment, etc.) a large dining-room, butler's pantry, kitchen and laundry, together with the Superintendent's private office. The second floor is arranged in sleeping apartments for the students, with a private suite of rooms for the Superintendent. The entire third floor can be utilized as room is needed.

The building is equipped with all modern improvements.

The railroad runs through the Farm, and a station is located on the grounds. Fifteen trains run on week days from Philadelphia to the Farm School, and twelve trains on Sunday. Most of the week-day and all of the Sunday trains stop immediately in front of the School House. The trolley also runs between Philadelphia and Doylestown.

THE DEDICATION OF THE FARM SCHOOL.

Sunday, June 20th, was the day set apart by the Board of Directors for the consecration of the farm and its appurtenances, and the dedication of the newly erected school building to the purposes for which they had been acquired.

No pains nor labor had been spared by the committee having the matter in charge to assure the successful carrying out of the program arranged for the services.

Many prominent citizens from all parts of the country who had been invited to take part in or attend the ceremonies, expressed their hearty sanction or co-operation in the work. The large gathering of people in the beautiful grove adjoining the school building, coming from all directions by special train from Philadelphia, by all kinds of vehicles from the surrounding country, testified to the sincere interests of the people at large to the noble cause.

It was an impressive sight indeed, when promptly at 12 o'clock that large concourse of people gathered beneath the shade of the beautiful grove of trees, tinted by nature's ornamentation of vivid green and red, augmented by the brilliant hues of the national flags and the bunting on all sides, and especially on the platform occupied by the speakers—arose and in silence listened to the fitting words of invocation offered by the Rev. Dr. Henry Berkowitz, which marked the opening of the days sacred service.

Judge Harman Yerkes then arose and delivered the opening address, setting forth the object of the gathering and the noble purposes and high aims of the institution about to be dedicated. He then introduced to the audience the Hon. Robt. E. Pattison, Ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, as the presiding officer of the occasion.

Mr. Pattison, in assuming the duties of Presiding Officer, first offered his congratulations to Dr. Krauskopf and the Board of Managers upon the inauguration of an institution, which he believed was destined to work out the most beneficent results. He assured them of the thoughtful sympathy and consideration of advanced thinkers throughout the world. He showed by statistics the unlimited opportunities for prosperity offered in pursuit of agriculture and gave the movement a hearty indorsement.

Mr. Walter Cope, the architect of the building, in a few appropriate remarks turned over the building to the Building Committee.

In the absence of Mr. Samuel D. Lit, Chairman of the Building Committee, Adolph Eichholz, Esq., also a member of the Committee, read a letter from Mr. Lit, asking him to formally turn over the building to the President and Board of Managers. This Mr. Eichholz did in a brief address, outlining the objects and purposes to which the building was to be dedicated.

Dr. Krauskopf, founder and president of the Farm School then arose, and with earnest words of thanks accepted from the hands of the Building Committee the noble edifice which their zeal and labor had helped to create. He spoke of the serious obligations which the dedication of this building brought upon him as well as all connected with the institution. He called to the attention of Mr. G. S. Voorhees, the newly elected master of the Farm School, the seriousness of the charge devolving upon him as the inaugurator of the actual work of this new and momentous movement. He spoke of this movement as a new chapter opening in the history of the Jewish people, when an end is to be put to the 1800 years of enforced abstention from agricultural pursuits, when a beginning is to be made of the training that shall gradually wean the Israelite from the almost exclusive pursuit into which his persecutors have driven him, and restore him to the noble calling of agriculture.

Dr. Krauskopf was followed by Mr. G. S. Voorhees in an interesting address on the importance and necessity of a proper scientific training for successful farm work.

Mr. Ralph Blum, Chairman of the Committee on Memberships, in well chosen words told of the work accomplished by his Committee, and set forth the condition and resources of the association.

Following Mr. Blum's statements, short addresses were made by Hon. John Field, Prof. John V. Shoemaker, Coroner Samuel H. Ashbridge, Rev. J. Leonard Levy.

Following the short addresses the ceremonies connected with the formal consecration of the Farm School were carried out. These consisted of the charge and prayer by the Rev. Dr. Henry Berkowitz, the consecration by the Rev. Dr. Sabbatai Morais.

The exercises were then closed by a God speed and benediction by the Rev. Clifton H. Levy.

2. The regular rising hour for the students will be 6 A. M. and they shall retire not later than 10 P. M. They will be expected to spend from 8 to 9 P. M. as a study period.

3. No student will be allowed to leave the farm during term time without permission from the Master or Matron.

4. Excuses for absence from the school or farm duties must be obtained from the Master.

5. The discipline will be home-like, mild, yet firm. Special privileges will be awarded for diligence and meritorious conduct. Repeated misdemeanors will be followed by dismissal.

6. A vacation will be allowed to all connected with the institution, from Thanksgiving Day to New Year Day inclusive. This time is so arranged as not to interfere with the regular running order of the farm.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE ADMISSION OF STUDENTS.

1.—An applicant for admission must be between 15 and 19 years of age.

2.—He must be sufficiently advanced in the study of the ordinary English branches to be able to pass an examination for admission to a High School, or a school of equal grade.

3.—Where an applicant cannot present evidence satisfactory to the Master of the School, showing the necessary proficiency in the ordinary English branches, the Committee on Applications may make arrangements for a special examination of such applicant.

4.—An applicant must be in good health. A physician's certificate, according to the form prescribed by the Trustees, must accompany the application. Where practicable, the Committee on Applications will designate a physician near the residence of the applicant, from whom such certificate must be obtained.

5.—An applicant must be of good moral character and able and willing to perform hard out-door work. Satisfactory references must accompany the application, and wherever practicable, the recommendations must be submitted by the applicant to and be endorsed by the members of the Auxiliary Board representing the State in which such applicant resides.

6.—Preference will be given to the applications of graduates of Orphan Asylums, or other like charitable institutions. The number of admissions will be dependent upon the annual income of the School. Applications will be considered in the order in which they are received.

7.—A limited number of pay students will be accepted at a charge of $200 per annum, payable semi-annually in advance. In lieu of this fee, the Trustees will accept the written pledge of a sufficient number of reliable persons agreeing to contribute annually, for four years, membership dues to the amount of $200. (The dues are as follows:—Friends, $25.00 per annum; Patrons, $10.00 per annum; Members, $5.00 per annum.)

It is estimated that the charge of $200 per annum will merely cover the expenses of the student's maintenance.

8.—When an applicant shall have been notified that his application has been favorably acted upon, he must come to Doylestown, Pennsylvania, at his own expense, and must come provided with seasonable clothing for one year.

The outfit should consist of summer and winter working clothes, school clothes, and a number of changes of underwear. Every article of clothing should be distinctly marked.

9.—The receptacle for a student's personal effects must not exceed in size that of an ordinary steamer trunk.

10.—Before any student shall be admitted, his parents or guardian must release all control over him from the time of his entrance until his completion of the four years' course, or until such prior time as he may, in the discretion of the Trustees be discharged therefrom. Such parents or guardian must also waive all claim for compensation for services which he may render in or about the school or the farm thereunto belonging.

This Regulation is made in order to enable the Trustees to encourage the student in the pursuit of his studies and to protect him against any possible ill-advised interference of relatives.

11.—It is the intention of the Trustees to gradually develop a plan by means of which the advanced students will be enabled to obtain compensation for their work upon the farm. This plan, when adopted, will be purely in the interest of the students and for the purpose of encouraging them in the pursuit of agriculture. Any payments that may be made to the students, will therefore be in the discretion of the Trustees.

DIVINE SERVICES.

Non-sectarian services will be conducted every morning prior to the commencement of class studies or field work.

On Saturday and Sunday only the most necessary work will be done.

Students will be encouraged to attend Divine service at the churches of their respective denominations. Those keeping the Saturday holy will be required to devote Sunday to indoor studies. Those keeping the Sunday holy will be required to devote Saturday to indoor studies. The same rule will apply to religious holidays. National holidays will be observed by all alike.

SPECIAL STUDENTS.

A special class of students, to be known as board students, will be admitted to the school for as long a time as they may desire. They will be expected to comply with all the regulations and requirements of the institution, and have all aids and benefits to be derived from class room and field work. They will however, not be obliged to perform the more difficult field work on the farm if they should not desire. Students to be thus admitted must have the special consent of the Board of Trustees, and the privilege will be accorded mainly to such only, who in the opinion of their physicians may need a term of farm life and work for the upbuilding of their systems, or who may seek to spend their vacation in closer communion with nature, or who may seek a special course of instruction in agriculture. The fee for special students will be determined by the Board of Trustees.

EXTRACTS FROM SOME OF THE MANY LETTERS RECEIVED.

From Ex-President Grover Cleveland.

I fully sympathize with the very useful and important project in which you are so honorably and prominently interested, and I look upon it as promising most beneficent results.

From the Hon. Andrew D. White, U. S. Ambassador to Germany.

I feel that your enterprise is an admirable one from every point of view, indeed that you are thoroughly on the right track and cannot fail to render a great service to the Israelite population by the institution which you are creating at Doylestown.

From Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, New York.

The earnest efforts you are making to encourage agriculture among Jewish lads are certainly deserving of success which, I hope, and doubt not, will be vouchsafed to you.

From Hon. Oscar S. Straus, New York, Ex-Minister to Turkey.

I hope at some future time to acquaint myself with the work which seems to have made such wonderful progress under your inspiration, and no doubt is calculated to achieve good results.

From the Hon. Edward Lauterbach, New York.

Permit me, on behalf of the Jewish community to thank you sincerely for this most essential and beneficent work in which you are engaged. It is exceeded in importance by no philanthropic undertaking, assumed by those engaged in caring for the needs of their fellowmen and its enterprise in opening this important avenue of usefulness to the Jewish as well as Christian youth, should receive the most abundant encouragement.

From Mr. Nathan Straus, New York.

The work the National Farm School is engaged in, that of developing, morally, mentally and physically, those who are unable to help themselves, stands out so pre-eminently as a charitable and patriotic one, that it certainly needs no encomiums.

From Mr. Adolph S. Ochs, Pres. New York Times Co., New York.

I wish you God-speed in your great undertaking. It appears to me that you are working in the right direction and much good and far-reaching results will certainly crown the success of your efforts.

From the Rev. Dr. I. L. Leucht, New Orleans.

I anxiously await the success of your Farm School, being deeply convinced that schools of that kind will partly help to solve the Jewish question among the emigrants of our country. Believe me, sir, that I will do all in my power for your great enterprise, whenever an opportunity offers itself to further its aim and end.

From the Rev. Dr. I. M. Wise, Pres. Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati.

Permit me to congratulate you to your signal success in building up the National Farm School. I consider this school a blessing not only to the young that enjoy the benefit of the education your school gives them, but also a special blessing to humanity, by redeeming so many young people from the thraldom of the Proletariat in the Cities, the physical and moral degeneration connected with that social status, and the misery and sinfulness, which, alas, it not seldom produces for more individuals and for society. Go on in the name of God to dispense blessing through education especially among our suffering brethren. Every one you turn from vulgar life of the city to the noble occupation of the tiller of the ground, is a valuable gain to humanity.

From Mr. B. Bettmann, President of the Board of Governors of the Hebrew Union College.

An enterprise to which every true lover of humanity and our race must sincerely wish success.

From Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, Columbia University, New York.

In these days where our rural communities in the older sections are fast being depopulated, any institution that would tend to make agriculture a more attractive calling, is certainly to be encouraged. That the National Farm School will contribute to this end seems to be assured.

From Mr. Isidore Bush, St. Louis.

I need not assure you that my sympathies are with your noble undertaking.

From the Rev. B. Felsenthal, Chicago, Ill.

Under divine blessings the School will prosper and become a mighty factor in furthering the true welfare of very many of our brethren and indirectly of thousands who are not directly reached by your institution.

From the Rev. Dr. Benjamin Szold, Baltimore, Md.

I trust that the number of those who will avail themselves of the advantages it offers may be great and their careers may rebound to the credit of Judaism.

From the Rev. Dr. Adolph Moses, Louisville, Ky.

The creation of the Farm School will make an epoch in the history of American Israel. It is a step of incalculable importance towards a solution of the Jewish question.

From the Rev. Dr. E. G. Hirsch, Chicago.

Owing to ill-health which compels me to leave for Europe, it will be impossible for me to accept your flattering invitation. None, believe me, will regret my absence more than do I.

From the Rev. Henry Iliowizi, Philadelphia.

That your enterprise may be crowned with the success it deserves, so that the petty trading in which so many, alas, so many of our brethren waste their noblest energies may be substituted by the cultivation of God's blessed earth, is my heartfelt prayer.

From the Rev. Dr. Israel Aarons, Buffalo, N. Y.

I want to congratulate you on the success which has already attended your efforts in this matter, and wish you the full fruition your industry deserves.

From the Rev. Dr. J. B. Grossman, Philadelphia.

The enterprise shall, for more than one reason, command the encouragement and support of intelligent Israelites.

From the Rev. Dr. A. Guttman, Syracuse, N. Y.

I am in hearty sympathy with this movement and you will allways find me standing by your side in the interest of this worthy cause.

From the Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes, New York.

People may not yet recognize the full scope of its blessing, but their descendants will, and that for many generations of independent Jewish farmers and fruit culturists, redeemed from the pack of the yardstick.

From the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, New York.

I regard the movement to which you have given initiation and vitality as an historical event, calculated (in connection with similar institutions established by aid of the Baron de Hirsch Fund and other means) to create a new epoch in American Israel, the benefit of which will only be thoroughly felt by future generations.

From the Rev. M. de Sola, Montreal.

The project is an excellent one, and I trust that it will receive the support it deserves.

Fron the Rev. Stephen S. Wise, New York.

Your enterprise in inaugurating this plan and your zeal in bringing it to a successful outcome merit the highest praise, and I earnestly pray for your sake and the good of the cause, which you have so devotedly fathered, that God's blessing may rest upon you and all other friends of this commendable movement.

From the Prothonatary M. Russell Thayer, Philadelphia.

I regard this institution as one of the highest importance socially, morally and politically—if there be any more honorable pursuit than that of agriculture or any upon which the welfare of the state is more dependent, I do not know which it is.

From Judge Clement B. Penrose, Philadelphia.

The undertaking is a noble one and the national interest which it has awakened is an almost necessary result.

From Mr. Edward Brooks, Supt. of Public Schools, Philadelphia.

The best place for the boy to be educated is on the farm. Here he learns those virtues of industry, patience, and economy that are fundamental in personal character and the achievement of high success in life. From the farms of the country have come the leading citizens of our large cities, and the most eminent statesmen of the nation.

From James W. Walk, M. D., Philadelphia.

Let me assure you of my most cordial sympathy in your noble effort to follow the time-honored advice of the fathers, "Teach a useful trade to every youth." Surely, agriculture is one of the best trades, as it is indeed the foundation of all industries.

From Mr. Harris Weinstock, Sacramento, Cal.

Of discouragement you will have much at first, and many will be they who will decry your worthy undertaking, but you will succeed in the end. You will be surprised then to find how many have always deemed a Farm School for Jewish youths practical and timely.

From Mr. Samuel Shuman, Boston.

It is with increasing interest that I have watched the growth of the National Farm School—an institution whose humanitarian and philanthropic workings must surely call forth the earnest admiration of every serious thinker of these times. Humanity at large cannot fail to be benefitted by an establishment, which, steadily progressing under the faithful guidance of its executor, awakens honorable ambition in the minds of men of insufficient worldly means.

From Mr. Morris Tuska, Vice-President of the Jewish Orphan Asylum, New York.

My heartfelt wishes for the continued success of this grand institution accompany you.

From Mr. S. Landauer, Atlanta, Ga.

I will always take a lively interest in the affairs of the School and do all in my power to help it along.

From Mr. B. Bernheim. Louisville, Ky.

The institution is one in which I take the deepest interest, for I regard it as a move in the right direction, and I trust the time will come when many similar institutions will be established throughout the country.

From Mr. Isidore Hernsheim, New Orleans, La.

Your charity is solidly practical, and while I believe that you will meet with many disappointments at the start, yet I am convinced that in the near future your zeal and energy will surmount all obstacles and be crowned with success.

Mrs. Minnie D. Louis, New York.

I congratulate you that you have perceived the true course and I honor you that you have been brave enough to assert it, and so generous and energetic in giving it tangibility.

From Josiah Cohen, Esq., Pittsburg, Pa.

Allow me to congratulate you on the success of the National Farm School, an institution which promises, more than any other, to solve the great problem of how to benefit our Jewish poor. It contradicts the prevailing sentiment that Jews only seek to cultivate commercial pursuits. May its past success be typical of a brilliant future.

From A. Leo Weil, Esq., Pittsburg, Pa.

The Farm School may, and in my judgment undoubtedly will, greatly stimulate agricultural pursuits among certain classes. I therefore hail it with some relief, possibly a sign-post to the road of complete remedy. It is, in any event, worthy of support for the great good we know it will do, as well as for the greater good we hope it may do. If I can be of service, please command me.

From Mr. Leon Mandel, Chicago.

I look upon the National Farm School as of incalculable value to young men who seek to make a livelihood that is independent and self-reliant. It is true philanthropy and will rebound credit to the founders.

From Mr. B. Sanger, Dallas, Tex.

I feel quite sure that the earnest endeavors of yourself and associates will be still more largely rewarded, and I trust that you may see your plans worked out in all their fulness.

From the Rev. S. H. Fleishman, Supt. of Jewish Orphan Asylum, Phila.

I believe that the object for which the National Farm School is established when put into successful operation, will open a most useful career to bright and capable boys, unfitted for mercantile pursuits, and from what I have seen during my short visit to the Doylestown farm, I feel that the proper course is being pursued towards carrying out this aim, which, when realized, must surely prove a benefit to the Jewish people in particular, and the country in general.

From Mr. Michael Heymann, Supt. of the Jewish Orphans' Home, New Orleans, La.

Its creation an inspiration of noble thought, its realization the desideratum long longed for, and its success a solution of one of the most difficult problems of what to do with our youths.

Dr. Aron A. Loewenheim, Supt. of Chicago Home for Jewish Orphans, Chicago, Ill.

I hasten to congratulate you on your successful opening and consecration of the National Farm School, which I hope will stand and grow and prosper, an honor to its founders, a pride of Judaism, and a means to save many.
